

When my husband and I discovered this beautiful valley in 2010, we knew that we had found the perfect place to retire. Sadly, my husband passed away shortly after we moved to our new home. I thought about moving elsewhere, but I had such a good feeling about Hemet that I decided to stay. What a difference twelve years has made in our community.

What does it say about a place when you're embarrassed to invite your guests out to dinner, or when the City Council rolls out the welcome mat for homeless with severe mental disorders? What it says to me is that we better act quickly to clean up our city before we lose it altogether. I'm committed to taking back Hemet for the good and decent people who love this community and want to see it realize its incredible potential.

I bring to the City Council my 20-year career in the United States Navy, and the organization, discipline and resolve that a Chief Petty Officer must possess. I specialize in solving problems, and I don't waste time in the process. Please join me in my fight to recapture our community.
